

Table of Contents

REVIEW UPDATE	14
• The demographic and urban context	14
• Recent urban transport trends	15
- The disappearance (or decreasing weight) of national/municipal public corporations	15
. Structural difficulties of national corporations	15
. Development of small private operators	22
- Devaluation has weakened the transport sector	23
- Problems posed by the transfer of urban transport responsibilities to local authorities	24
THE DEVELOPMENT STRATEGY	27
• How to determine demand	27
• The characteristics of transport supply	28
- Supply capacities to be mobilized	28
- Organizing supply around a ranked network	31
- Road and traffic conditions	31
- Choice of equipment and conditions of maintenance	32
• The institutional organization	34
- Setting up a regulatory authority	34
- Concessioneering to operators of busy routes	35
- Groupings of operators	35
• Financing the system	36
- Financing the roads and ancillary equipment	36
- Financing operations	36
. Revenue	36
. Operating expenses	38
. Covering expenses out of revenue	39
- Financing investments	39
. Tax measures	40
. Financial measures	40
- Donor organizations	42
• How to run transport companies	44
- Companies must be of sufficient size	44
- What corporate status?	44
- The need for a GIE or cooperative type structure	46
- Subcontracting	47
- The revival of a transport company: the case of Beirut	48